

As we come and worship, we remember the wurundjeri people, the original custodians of this land

FIRST READING Acts: 5:27-32. 40-41

We are witnesses of these words, and so is the Holy Spirit.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM

I will praise you, Lord, for you have rescued me.

SALMO RESPONSORIALE

Ti esaltero', Signore, perche' mi hai risollevato.

SECOND READING Apocalypse 5:11-14

The Lamb that was sacrificed is worthy to be given power, wealth, glory, and blessing.

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION

Alleluia, alleluia!

Christ is risen, the Lord of all creation: he has shown pity on all people. Alleluia, alleluia!

CANTO AL VANGELO

Alleluia, alleluia!

Cristo e' risorto, lui che ha creato il mondo, e ha salvato gli uomini nella sua misericordia. Alleluia, alleluia!

GOSPEL John 21:1-19

Jesus stepped forward, took the bread and gave it to them, and did the same with the fish.

Jesus with us

‘Come and have breakfast!’ When my good friends Angie and Jim utter these words, I head for their place. Breakfast with them is something special. I always come away feeling renewed and full of life and a stomach to match! At Angie and Jim’s, the first thing that greets me is their magnificent garden. It is teeming with life. All sorts of bright, colorful flowers, shrubs and plants.

The veggie garden and fruit trees are bursting with produce and these home grown delights await me in Angie’s kitchen. As I walk through this ‘Eden’, I know that something more wonderful happens at the front door. The greeting and welcome from Angie and Jim to their home is something that must be experienced. They kiss and hug me and greet me with all sorts of Italian words of welcome, which I try my best to understand! Angie and Jim “break open” their lives and graciously welcome me into their home. Being part of their family is truly a blessing and one of life’s precious moments.

Once inside, the kitchen table is the destination. Walking down the hallway, I’m greeted by enticing smells of all the delicious things Angie has ready. As we sit down to eat, Jim always prays and offers thanks for what we are about to share and enjoy. For starters, fresh fruit slices. Oranges, pears, apples, and bananas. Then comes the main course. Beautifully cooked bacon, golden eggs, juicy ripe tomatoes and freshly made thick toast with lashings of Angie’s home made fruit preserves. What a feast! As we eat, talk and celebrate life together, there is ‘more happening here than meets the eye’ in our simple gathering. Through these ordinary human activities of eating and being together, being embraced at the front door, enjoying a beautiful garden, and sharing life, we all experience something extra-ordinary. The risen Jesus is present. The risen Jesus sits at our table. The risen Jesus shares in our sharing of life. The life and love of the risen Jesus breaks through onto these everyday human experiences. Yet, it’s also an invitation and a reminder to look deeper and deeper into the mystery of how the risen Jesus is present in so many different ways in each of our lives. With Jesus no longer physically present to the disciples, they too are called deeper into the mystery of the risen Jesus and what it now means for their lives. Initially they don’t recognise Jesus. Yet, through fishing and a great catch the beloved disciple cries out, “it is the Lord!” As if to celebrate their new “sight” and understanding Jesus calls out, “Come and have breakfast”. It’s a further invitation to the disciples to experience the presence of the risen Jesus, through being together and sharing life. Let’s discover the many ways that the risen Jesus is present to us. A good place to begin is with the simple, ordinary, everyday moments of life.

So now, who’s for breakfast?

FEAST OF ST. JOSEPH THE WORKER

ST PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL

This Sunday evening 18 April at 6.30pm a Mass will be celebrated by Archbishop Denis Hart at St Patrick's Cathedral, to pray for the repose of the souls of the late Polish President, Lech Kaczynski and the 96 others who were on board the presidential plane which crashed on the weekend. You are most welcome to attend.

THOUGHTS ON THE GOSPEL

Not too many people serve grilled fish for breakfast – smoked maybe, but not grilled. But who would turn it down if Jesus was the one offering it? Bread and fish. Not unlike the meal he earlier served to the large crowd on the mountainside (Jn 6:9-11). Both times he astonished the disciples. Unfortunately we may know the stories too well to be astonished. If this is the case, then we may not understand them at all.

If the stories about the risen Lord no longer astonish us, the implications of the resurrection in our lives well may. It is not enough to proclaim: I believe! We have all been called to witness to that faith. Whether we realize it or not, our daily lives cry out as loudly as did the preaching of the apostles. This includes our interactions with family members and neighbours, companions in the workplace and sales personnel, even strangers on the bus or train. Faith in the resurrection of Jesus influences the decisions that we make about everything in life. Jesus extends the invitation: "Follow me." Our manner of living reveals how we have responded.
