Self Giving

Recently I had my first opportunity to visit India. It is a large and extremely diverse country, with a population of over one billion people.

India is a complex tapestry. Across the country there are vast differences in geography, climate, food, language, culture and wealth. Everything is steeped in history and tradition. Music and dance communicate much of the Indian story. Religion, worship and spirituality are important in everyday life.

All this makes for a fascinating country. One thing really stands out – the people and what they gave to me. I was blessed to be able to visit people in their homes.

My visit to Sanjay and Maria is typical of what I experienced. I arrived at their home in the early evening. Sanjay met me at the door and warmly embraced me. He introduced me to his son and then invited me in, telling me that Maria had stepped out, but that she would return shortly.

In the meantime, Sanjay produced a bottle of his finest Indian whiskey which he had been saving for such a special occasion. He told me about himself and his family. He shared so much of his life with me.

Maria returned and she welcomed me and made feel as though I was the only person in the world. For me it was a moment of sheer grace, received with gratitude.

Maria announced with great enthusiasm that it was time to eat! What followed was unbelievable. I learned that Maria's absence when I first arrived was because she was out obtaining the necessary provisions for my visit.

Maria prepared a banquet. Dish after dish of sumptuous food was brought in for me to enjoy. Each dish was prepared just as it was needed so that it would be fresh. The room was filled with the tantalising aroma of flavours and spices.

I noticed I was the only person eating! I gently enquired and was told that I was the honoured guest and only when I was cared for, would the family begin to eat. It was lavish hospitality and generosity.

Jesus describes himself as the "living bread" given for the "life of the world". At Eucharist, Jesus is the lavish host. He gives himself in his Body and Blood, in this gift of his life, demands that we, like Jesus, give ourselves for others because "we though many, are one body."

Self-giving lies at the heart of Eucharist – and at the heart of our own lives. Sanjay and Maria gave themselves and what they had completely to me.

Today Jesus gives himself completely to us. May we give ourselves to others.

NATIONAL ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER SUNDAY 3RD JULY 2011

Blessed John Paul II during his 1986 visit to Australia at the mass on 29th Novmeber 1986 in Alice Springs during his homily addressed the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people telling them: "You are part of Australia and Australia is part of you. And the church herself in Australia will not be fully the church that Jesus wants her to be until you have made your contribution to her life and until that contribution has been joyfully received by others".

Inspired by Pope John Paul II's visit to Alice Springs the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Catholic Council was established in January 1989. In 1992 The Australian Catholic Bishops Conference officially dedicated the first Sunday of July as the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Sunday. This year it will be celebrated next weekend the 3rd of July 2011.

The special statement written by the Australian Catholic Bishops invites us to 'Friendship' with our Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples is a possibility we could examine more fully. This would imply that to be in solidarity with the First Australians means to deepen our friendship with each other. It means to develop an attitude of support and unity. It makes our relationship personal and practical." ## THOUGHTS ON THE GOSPEL

"Do this in memory of me." Many of the great things of life are kept alive through the 'remembering' of cherished traditions. Moses says to the people, "Remember...do not forget, the Lord fed you with manna." In the words of John's gospel before the passage we read today, Jesus has recalled this story of the Exodus, and likened himself to the manna given to the people in the midst of their complaining. Now he announces the inauguration of a new tradition – and, as John tells us, it too will be met with complaining.

"To this point, Jesus has been telling the people that he was foreshadowed in the manna. He came to nourish their old faith. Now, however, he makes a dramatic announcement. In all that he does, he is giving expression to the ways of his Father – taking up the initiative himself. He will become the nourishment of God's people in a way that could never have been anticipated: "The bread that I shall give is my flesh for the life of the world".
