Universal Shepherd

Jeremiah is known as the reluctant prophet. Timid by nature and suffering a speech defect, he found it hard to believe God was calling him to be spokesperson for his people. Yet, it is through the lips of Jeremiah we learn something of the true nature of God as universal shepherd. Today's Psalm also describes God as the ideal ruler and shepherd guiding his people, protecting them from evil and feeding them a banquet. All this is a far cry from the real world of terror, violence and division. This is also a world in which leaders of peoples and nations too often act like jealous warlords rather than caring shepherds. God's promise through Jeremiah is to raise up leaders of honesty and integrity who will shepherd their flock. Here there will be no more terror or division. Is this just some kind of utopian dream? In Ephesians, the hard-headed Paul recognises divisions between people are deeply ingrained in human hearts. Yet, he also knows these racial, cultural, religious and human barriers have been destroyed by Christ who "in his own person killed the hostility". According to John, Jesus Christ is the Good Shepherd who died to unite all the scattered people of God (John 10:16; 11:52). Mark's Gospel shows that Jesus saw his own earthly ministry in terms of shepherding. He responds to the crowds with compassion because he sees "they were like sheep without a shepherd". And, like the shepherd in the Psalm, Jesus invites the apostles to "rest for a while" to revive their drooping spirits. Something of the biblical shepherd image is lost to contemporary ears. In Australia where sheep stations carry thousands of sheep, we have graziers and pastoralists rather than shepherds. This is far removed from images of biblical shepherds who tend their small flocks and know each sheep and their sheep knew them (John 10:14). This intimate relationship between sheep and shepherd needed to be established at an early stage. Consequently, when Isaiah pictures God as a shepherd who "gathers the lambs in his arms and carries them close to his heart" (Isaiah 40:11), he is reflecting on normal shepherding practice in biblical, mid-Eastern times. The good shepherd not only cares for his sheep, he leads them out to more restful waters and greener pastures. If necessary, he leaves the ninety-nine and goes in search of the one who is lost (Matthew 18:12). Jesus, the Good Shepherd, responds to people's needs through his ministry of teaching and healing. God, the universal shepherd, is nowhere better depicted than in the story of the Prodigal Son (Luke 15: 11ff.) as the ever loving and forgiving Father waiting to celebrate his son's return with a banquet. The banquet is a common image throughout the Scriptures including today's Psalm. The Eucharist re-enacts Jesus' final banquet with his disciples. Each time we celebrate the Eucharist, we make ourselves at one with Jesus the Good Shepherd, and share in the work of God, the universal shepherd.

MINISTRY CAMPAIGN

This weekend 18/19 July at the 6.00pm and 10.30am Masses we welcome Mrs. Carmel Crawford from the Archbishop's Office for Evangelisation who will speak about the value of Ministry in the Church. Many people are involved in church ministry: reading, giving communion, assisting with the preparation and service of the altar, welcoming, helping with the collection and many other things. This will be a campaign to encourage more people to be involved in Ministry.

Sono attiva in questa parrocchia fino dalla sua fondazione soprattutto a servizio della numerosa comunità Italiana. Agli inizi degli anni settanta il Parroco P. Giuseppe Yu mi invitò ad assumere il servizio di Ministro Straordinario dell'Eucaristia e di Lettore nella S. Messa in Italiano. Ne rimasi sorpresa e turbata e non nascosi i miei sentimenti di sentirmi "indegna"

Il Parroco mi incoraggiò con simili parole: "L'amore per Gesù per la comunità ti aiuteranno", la gioiosa esperienza di una sempre più profonda unione con Cristo, la partecipazione attiva si alla Liturgia della Parola che dell'Eucaristia ha incoraggiato un numero sostanzioso di altre persone laiche che hanno assunto servizi umili ma importanti nella Chiesa e nella comunità. Parole da una lettera pastorale: "Voi laici potete molto poiché non siete una vecchiezza che tramonta, ma una giovinezza che sorge".

Invito a tutti ad assumere come loro compito la vita della chiesa.

I have been active in this Parish since its foundation in the 1970's mainly servicing to the numerous Italian community. The then parish priest Fr Joseph Yu invited me to serve as an Extraordinary Minister of the Eucharist and as a Reader at the Italian Mass. I was surprised and my feeling was that I was "unworthy".

Fr Yu encouraged me with similar words: "The love that you have for Jesus and the community will help you". My joyful experience which has grown deeper with the union of Christ, the active participation in the Liturgy of the Word and the Eucharist has encouraged a great number of lay Italian parishioners to the important services in the Church and Italian community. I would like to quote the words from a pastoral letter: "You laity are capable of much because you are not of a declining age, but of a youthful raise".

I invite all of you to take part in the life of the church.

Lena Cavedon
