The Lord is our Refuge

Nathan is a backpacker from a rural town in Ireland. He comes from a large Catholic family for whom faith and worship has always been very important. The family values the strength they receive from their faith. It has enabled them to remain positive and hopeful in the face of life’s challenges. Nathan has been in Australia for seven months. For much of that time he’s been working in a quaint little Irish bar in Sydney. It’s been a wonderful opportunity for him to meet people, make friends, get a taste of the “Aussie” way of life, earn some money and explore all that Sydney and its surrounds has to offer. Ironically, his new adventure in Sydney came at a price. It brought with it, as the gospel describes, “rain, floods and gales” that brought Nathan to his knees. Seduced by the lifestyle and false promises of how to be happy and have a good time, his life came crashing down. This young Irish lad had sacrificed all that he knew to be right and true. Nathan was out of his depth. Where could he go to seek refuge and find help? The first thing Nathan did was to leave Sydney and “go bush”. Having grown up in the country, instinct told him that he would be more “at home” there and better able to make good decisions. The second thing Nathan did was to find his way back to Mass. Until his arrival in Sydney, Eucharist had been an important part of his life. But over time it just got shoved aside. It was after Mass one morning that I met Nathan. He came and introduced himself and asked if he could have a chat. Showing great courage and trust, Nathan opened his life to me. He spoke particularly of his experience in Sydney. He told me how in his search for belonging, he’d become trapped by the allure of instant gratification and so-called happiness. He shared his feelings of emptiness, guilt and isolation. He described being out of control on a slippery slope, which ultimately led to a might fall. Nathan’s desire was to reclaim his life by rediscovering the solid rock upon which his life had been built. He knew that he could no longer go it alone and that he needed Jesus as his rock of refuge. He also knew the value and importance of having a supportive community around him in which to grow and be nurtured. Nathan’s longing and yearning for life echoes the cry of the psalmist:

*“It is the Lord in whom we take refuge .
It is the lord who hears us and rescues us.
It is the lord who is our rock, our stronghold.
It is the Lord who leads us and guides us.
Take courage all who hope in the Lord.”*

It is also the longing, yearning and prayer of each of us gathered here today.

PROJECT COMPASSION SUNDAY 6 MARCH 2011

Every year during the Lenten season, Caritas invites Australians around the country to hear stories of enduring poverty and unconditional compassion, of entrenched inequality and unrelenting hope. We call on all Australians to contribute whatever they can to support those who carry the burden of global poverty.

Project Compassion, our Lenten journey, is the cornerstone of Caritas Australia's mission; through Project Compassion we answer Jesus' invitation to help build the Kingdom of God.

For many Australians, Project Compassion is the tangible expression of God's Kingdom. Through Project Compassion we feed the hungry, we house the homeless, we welcome the stranger," says Caritas Australia's CEO, Jack de Groot.

It is due to the extraordinary generosity of the Australian public that Caritas is able to support humanitarian work throughout the world, and share news of the people that you have helped in the world's most vulnerable communities. Last year, we put out a call and you answered to the tune of $9million. Your contributions were distributed amongst the international Caritas network, which spans over 200 countries and territories; you ensured that Caritas' work continues to reach those people who need it most. This year, we are aiming even higher, and we know that with your help we can make 2011 our best Project Compassion yet. Your support empowers disadvantaged communities to tackle the structures of poverty and take control of their future. Your support is the reason we have successes to celebrate and stories to tell. This year, we are sharing stories of those who have benefited from Project Compassion in Nepal, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Bolivia, Vietnam, Samoa, and here in Australia's Indigenous community.

The stories humble and inspire us. They show how your contribution to Project Compassion help people all over the world tackle entrenched injustice, and build better lives for themselves, their families and their broader communities.

Project Compassion boxes are available from the doors of the church. If you wish to take advantage of tax deductability, please complete your details on the inside flap of the box.

Please take home a brochure which explains many of Caritas Projects.
